PERSONAL INVITATION FROM THE FOUNDER

The psychedelic sector is one of the fastest-growing professional sectors in the world. As an emergent field in therapy and personal transformation, the opportunities for highly-skilled, experienced coaches are endless.

While intellectual learning around trauma and psychedelic harm reduction is vital, the ability to navigate entheogenic states, as well as support others in integrating their entheogenic experience is also essential.

Plant Spirit Journeys, a program of EntheoNation, offers community-oriented, culture-based healing with sacred plants and fungi.

We believe that participation in ancestral culture, community activism, and the shamanic arts are as integral to the healing process as taking the medicines themselves.

Through our transformational retreats, we hope to empower a generation of community leaders who are passionate about co-creating a psychedelic culture of peer-to-peer integration.

If this sounds like something you want to be a part of, we encourage you to join us.

WHY JOIN AN INTEGRATION
PRACTICUM RETREAT?

LIMITED OPTIONS FOR PRACTICAL PSYCHEDELIC TRAINING

RESERVE YOUR SPOT

Currently, the rising demand for psychedelic retreats and experiences outpaces the supply of qualified and experienced guides, facilitators, therapists, tripsitters or integration specialists. Training programs for psychedelic service providers are emerging to address this need, but they face this #1 challenge:

How to provide training with psychedelics when psychedelics are still illegal?

Because of this major limitation, psychedelic training programs are limited to these options:

- Breathwork and cannabis retreats as proxies for the psychedelic experience, which isn't quite the same, but can serve as a basic foundation for working with expanded states of consciousness.
- Legal training in ketamine therapy, for those who meet the academic or professional background requirements, which prepares you to work in a clinical environment.
- Underground psychedelic retreats and workshops, which would not be legal, nor publicized, and involve a level of risk for the organization and participants.
- Offer training retreats in other countries where the psychedelic is not prohibited, such as Jamaica, the Netherlands, and Peru.

INTEREST IN SHAMANIC HEALING OUTPACES CLINICAL

RESERVE YOUR SPOT

As mainstream interest grows, more people are seeking psychedelic experiences through underground ceremonies and shamanic facilitators, rather than legal ketamine clinics.

The desire to participate in ceremonies with psychoactive plants and fungi, in nature, in community, as a group healing and initiatory experience, remains as steadfast now as in the time of our tribal ancestors.

This social dynamic reveals a disconnect between the psychedelic healing experiences people are seeking and the clinical approach that many psychedelic training programs follow. The 3 main issues that can arise from this disconnect are a school's:

- Inability to effectively address paranormal or shamanic phenomenon that participants of entheogenic ceremonies might encounter, especially disturbing experiences
- Poor recognition of the level of impact the culture of the medicine has on an individual's healing experience
- Absence of appreciation of the force of group intention and prayer when galvanized in the visionary state, that can powerfully facilitate community healing and harmonious relations

WHAT IS AN INTEGRATION PRACTICUM RETREAT?

RESERVE YOUR SPOT

An integration practicum retreat is designed specifically to support psychedelic professionals in gaining embodied experience supporting others in preparing for, navigating and integrating entheogenic experiences.

While the vast majority of plant medicine retreats are entirely oriented towards personal healing and transformation, an integration practicum retreat is designed to prepare you to support others in THEIR healing and transformation.

In this practicum retreat, you will learn from indigenous wisdom keepers and seasoned integration coaches. Here are some of the skills you can expect to gain:

- Ancestral shamanic tools and techniques from the Shipibo and Q'ero lineages so that you can increase your ceremony space-holding skills
- Contemporary transformational modalities that anyone can practice, without having to be a licensed therapist, mental health counselor, or medical professional
- Hands-on practice in facilitating integration circles with your retreat cohort so that you might gain the confidence in facilitating group transformation.

WHY JOIN A PRACTICUM RETREAT WITH WISDOM KEEPERS?

RESERVE YOUR SPOT

Training in trauma-informed care and psychedelic harm reduction is vital and scientific research into psychedelic neuroscience is profoundly insightful. However, the ability to navigate entheogenic states oneself is also essential and cannot be substituted by intellectual knowledge alone.

The 4 key benefits of learning from ancestral wisdom keepers from unbroken shamanic lineages that have been working with psychedelic plants for millennia are:

- The honor of receiving the ancestral frameworks, practices and tools that have safely, effectively, and powerfully guided their ceremonial use of visionary plant medicines for a millennia
- The blessing of receiving wisdom, teachings, and prayers that have been passed down, through an unbroken lineage of apprenticeship
- Insight into what mastery of subtle shamanic arts, looks and feels like, a skill in navigating and influencing entheogenic states that is often overlooked by science.
- The opportunity to pass the torch of indigenous reciprocity to all future clients, so that we might continue to honor those who carried this wisdom forward, amidst tremendous hardship, to benefit a society that is straining under the weight of a global mental health crisis

WHO'S THIS JOURNEY FOR?

WHO THIS PRACTICUM RETREAT IS FOR

Our ideal retreat participants are plant medicine people who wish to develop their integration skills using ancestral & contemporary tools. They are:

- Experienced ceremony participants who wish to cultivate their leadership abilities so that they can be of greater service to their medicine community
- Aspiring or existing therapists and coaches who wish to incorporate plant medicine integration into their practice as a new transformational modality
- Aspiring or existing psychedelic professionals who wish to understand, learn, and incorporate shamanic healing paradigms into their practice
- Medical professionals and naturopaths who wish to incorporate evidence-based psychedelic integration into their practice

MEET THE WISDOM KEEPERS

TEDDY WILDER ROMAS CAIRUNA

Teddy has more than 15 years of experience working with medicinal plants, cooking ayahuasca, and as a teacher and guide. He has worked for years to create a more modern system of shamanism that includes techniques that can be applied to the lifestyles and rhythms of modern society.

Teddy first cooked ayahuasca with his grandfather, who was a traditional healer, at the age of 14. Soon after, he completed his first Master Plant dieta, and was crowned Onanya at 26, considered fit to heal and sit with elders in ayahuasca ceremonies.

DANILO FLORES APAZA

Danilo Quispe Apaza is a Papamisayoq, a “lineage priest” and practitioner of the Q’ero wisdom lineage of his Andean ancestors, a path that he has been training in since he was 2 years old. A traditional community healer, Danilo has been facilitating Huachuma healing ceremonies for the last 5 years.

CELSO QUISPE FLORES

Celso Quispe Florez is a Papamisayoq (High Priest) of the Q’ero lineage. Celso studied to become a traditional healer under his father from the age of eight, to lead despacho (offering) ceremonies and conduct healing in his community. Celso works closely with the sacred coca plant, and conducts Karpay initiations every year, which are essential for anyone who wants to be able to heal others and conduct despacho offerings in the Q’ero tradition.

ROSAURA CAIRUNA CANAYO

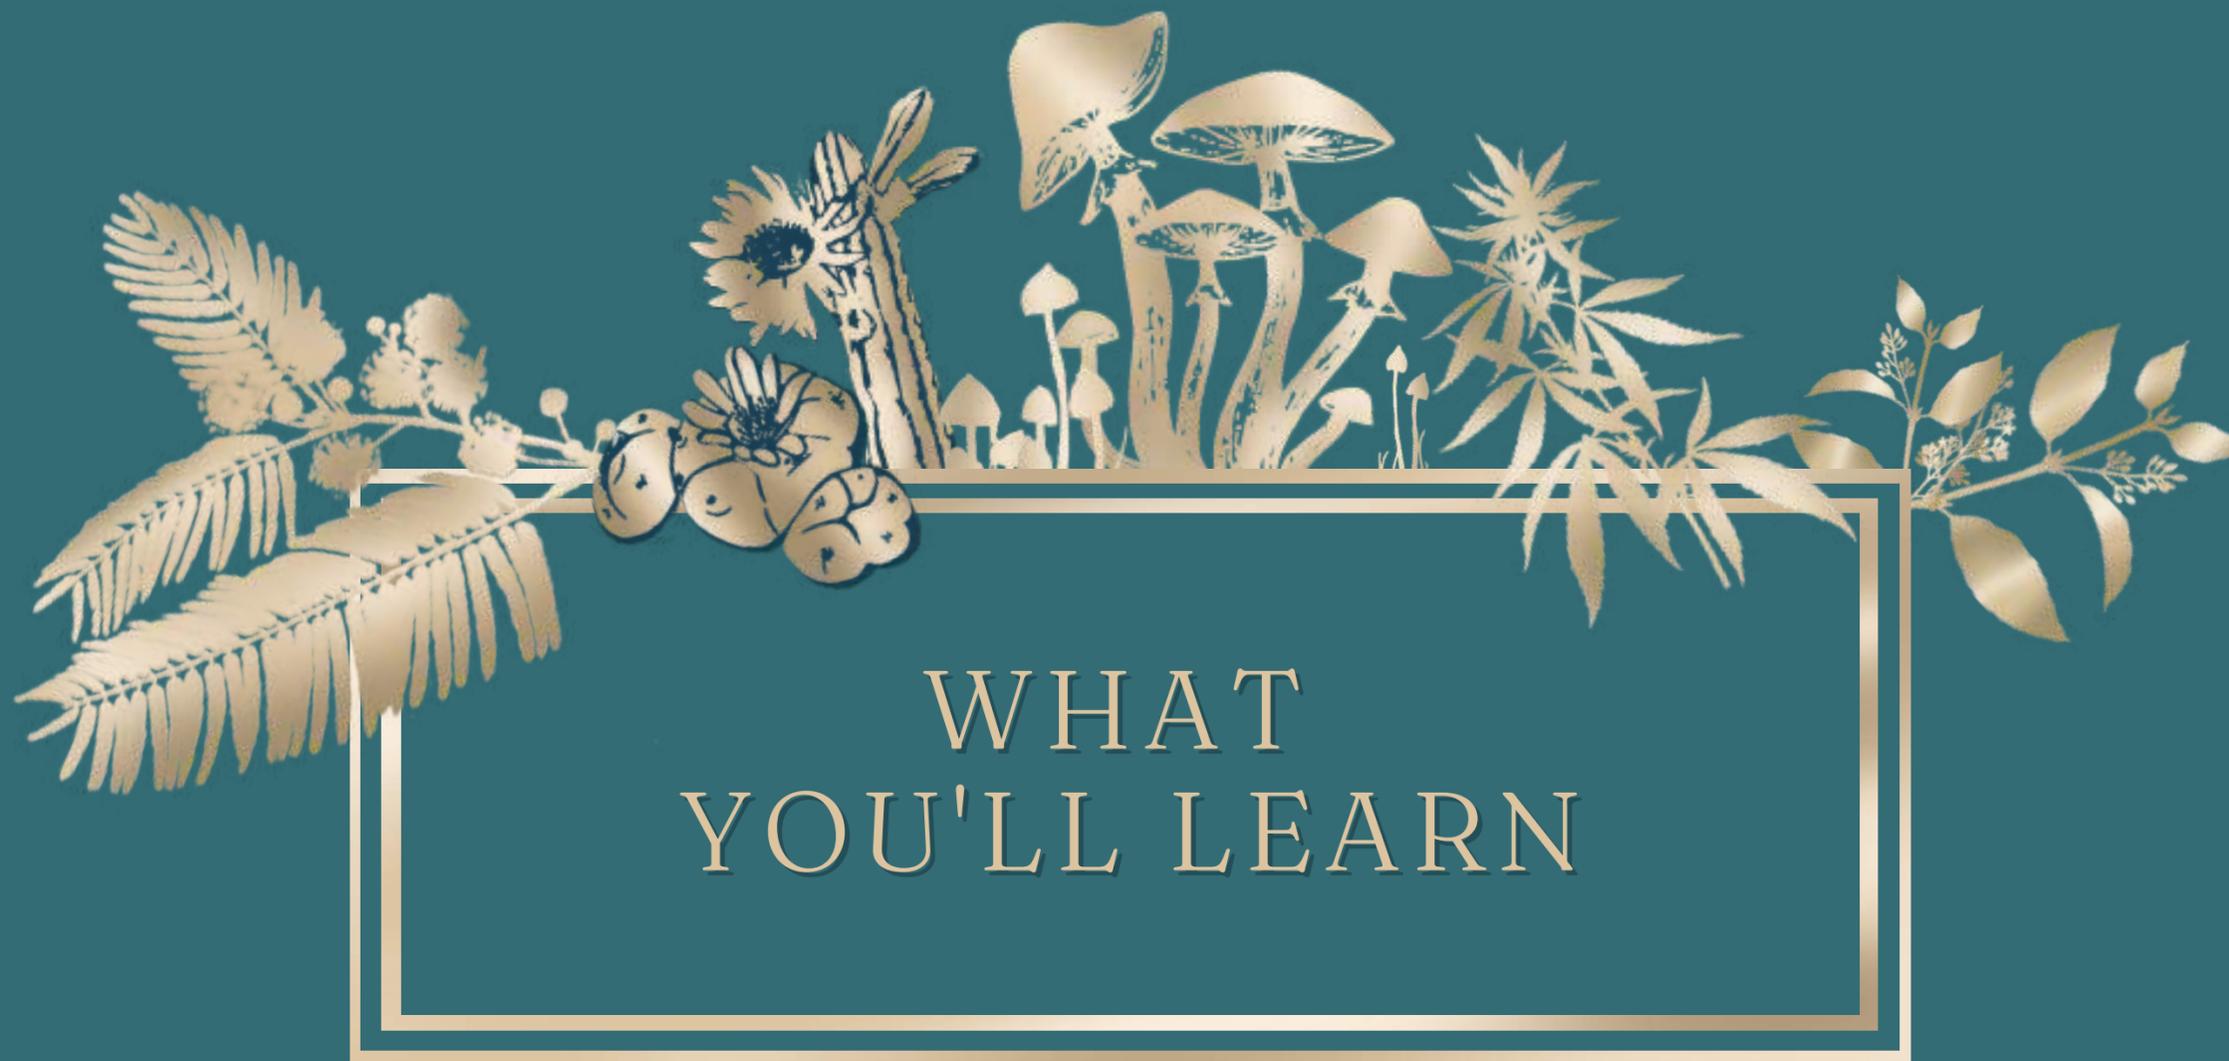

Rosaura was born in 1960 in the Shipibo Konibo community of Pahoyan, Loreto, in the Peruvian Amazon.

Rosaura has 30 years of experience in holding ayahuasca ceremonies and providing treatments with medicinal and Master Plants.

She has traveled to countries including Mexico and Spain to share this ancestral knowledge that she has acquired over decades of work as a healer.

ABOUT
MEDICINES

AYAHUASCA

Ayahuasca is a psychoactive brew and ancestral plant medicine made from the Banisteriopsis caapi vine and the leaves of the Psychotria viridis shrub.

The name "ayahuasca" comes from the Quechuan language and means "Vine of the Spirits"; it is used interchangeably to refer to the vine itself, as well as the brew. However, ayahuasca holds an important place in many South American cultures and may be referred to by different names depending on who is using it, including yagé, daime, hoasca and uní.

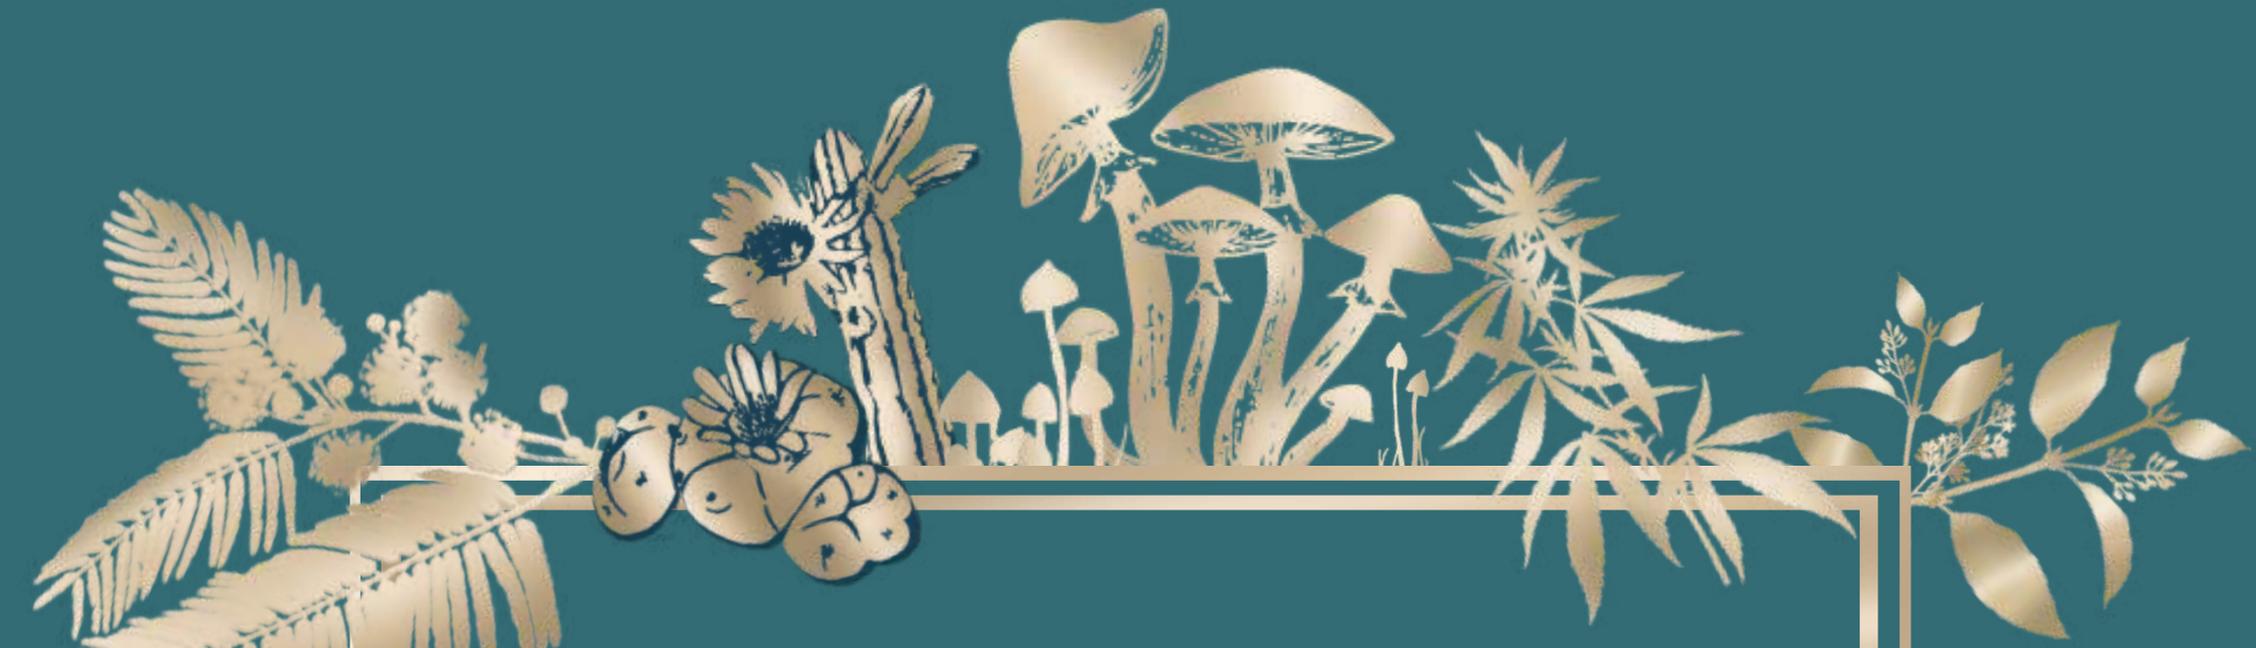

HUACHUMA

San Pedro (Echinopsis pachanoi) is a tall, fast-growing cactus native to the Andes mountains. It has long been used in Andean shamanism for its psychedelic properties, and as a treatment of physical ailments. It is still commonly used in Peru (known as Huachuma), Bolivia (known as Achuma), and Ecuador (known as Aguacolla).

The long-lasting mystical and sensory experience that results from ingesting San Pedro can be used for personal transformation, spiritual exploration, or even healing.

ABOUT
THE SACRED SITES

MACHU PICCHU

The world-renowned, sacred site of Machu Picchu is located above the Wilka Nota river and is home to the altar of Apu Salkantay, the most important of the Incas' spirit gods.

The citadel, which was built in the 15th century, is said to represent the crystal condor as it is built out of granite in the shape of a condor. The myth goes that the crystal condor carries the souls of humans to the sun of divine origins.

At this sacred site, you will be able to connect to the energies of the Incan traditions and understand their reverence for the sun, moon, and Mother Earth.

AGUAS CALIENTES

Aguas Calientes is a town in the Urubamba River Valley that lies at the seat of the Machu Picchu district.

The town is home to natural hot baths that provide some well-needed respite after traversing the mountains of the Sacred Valley.

Accessible only by train, Aguas Calientes is located on the banks of the Vilcanota River and is flanked by lush, green mountain walls that rise to the height of 400 meters on either side.

Machu Picchu is just a 30 minute bus ride from Aguas Calientes, making the little town the arrival point by train for people who want to visit the World Heritage Site.

OLLANTAYTAMBO

Ollantaytambo, located in the north of the Sacred Valley, is a living Inca town, overlooked by an impressive ancient citadel. The mountainside is home to elaborate terraces, temples, pyramids and astronomical observatories, showcasing the Incas' highly advanced understanding of architecture, astronomy, and engineering.

Ollantaytambo was a military, agricultural, astronomical and religious center, and has a number of ceremonial centers, including the temple of the sun and the temple of the water.

PISAC

The Andean town of Pisac, nestled in the southern end of the Sacred Valley, is known for its Incan ruins and impressive market, which sells produce, textiles, and souvenirs. The locals of Pisac are known for keeping tradition, with many of the women adorning the traditional Andean outfits.

Visitors enjoy views of the spectacular Incan ruins which cling to the cliffs above the town, made up of a large complex of terraces, residences, guard posts, watchtowers, and a ceremonial center.

Pisac also boasts Comunitario de Pisac, a museum full of ceramics and traditional textiles produced by local Quechua communities, a botanical garden, and the mythical rock formation, Ñusta Encantada.

MORAY

50km Northwest of Cusco and 3,500m high lies Moray, an enigmatic archeological site containing ancient Inca ruins.

The vast, spectacular ruins are composed of three groups of circular terraces (muyus in Quechua) stretching to 30m deep. The terraces' design, depth and orientation toward the sun and wind has created microclimates and temperature differences of up to 5 degrees celsius between the top and bottom.

Archeologists and anthropologists have long debated the purpose of these ruins, and the most widely-held belief is that the terraces were used as an experimental farm.

These ruins are a prime example of the Incas' deep understanding of their surrounding environment and how to use it to capitalize on the natural resources they had at their disposal.

THE RETREAT
VENUE

THE RETREAT VENUE & ACCOMMODATIONS

Our retreat takes place in the heart of Peru's Sacred Valley, a short distance from several archeological wonders of ancient Inca civilization. Nestled among lush gardens bursting with flowers and hummingbirds, our retreat venue includes a spacious, light-filled ceremonial temple space with a yoga dome.

Stroll through beautiful gardens featuring ponds,, waterfalls, creeks, or rest in hammocks while enjoying breathtaking views of the Pitusiray mountains. Plenty of outdoor seating will allow you to enjoy organic, garden-fresh meals in the clean mountain air.

Several houses include fireplaces, comfortable sofas, long dining tables, and fully equipped kitchens. Wifi is available in communal areas.

GENERAL

RESERVE YOUR SPOT

- Your first payment will be refunded in full if your application/health intake form is not accepted.
- You have until December 19, 2022, to request a refund for any reason. You'll be refunded minus a $250 processing fee.
- If you default on your second or third payment, your place may be offered to someone on the waiting list and you'll forfeit the deposit.
- The final amount received must total the exact retreat fee. You're responsible for any additional fees (i.e., transfer and/or exchange fees) that the bank charges. If paying from a U.S. account, Paypal typically won't have fees. Contact Customer Support if paying from a non-U.S. bank account.
- The minimum age requirement for program enrollment and participation is 21 years.
- Scheduled teachers and program details are subject to change.

CANCELLATION & REFUND POLICY

The logistics required for planning an international event are considerable, and deposits paid to our vendors are non-refundable. For this reason, our cancellation and refund policy is as follows:

- Payment to EntheoNation is refundable until December 19, 2022, minus a $250 processing fee.
- After December 19, the retreat is 50% refundable until January 19, 2022, minus the $250 processing fee.
- After January 19, pro-rated refunds will be available until February 19, 2022, minus the $250 processing fee.
- After February 19, due to the hard costs of this retreat, your payment is non-refundable.
- In the highly unlikely event that the retreat is canceled on our part, your money and your deposit will be returned minus an administrative fee of USD $100.

*Please note that this refund policy pertains only to the cost of the actual event.

Arrangements, agreements, contracts, and other obligations regarding accommodations, flights, travel documentation including visas and/or passports, COVID tests, etc. are the responsibility of the participant/applicant.

TRAVEL INFORMATION

- Group transportation to the retreat center has been arranged from a meeting point in Cusco. To ensure that you start the retreat in good form, we recommend arriving in Cusco a few days before the retreat.
- This will give you time to adjust to the high altitude (11,000 feet), which may cause altitude sickness for some people. Drinking coca tea, as well as chewing on coca leaves can reduce the symptoms of altitude sickness. Raw lemon juice can relieve symptoms.
- This will also give you an opportunity to visit noteworthy historical sites in Cusco that are not included in the sacred site tours that are part of the retreat program.
- Expect warm days with strong midday sun, followed by chilly evenings, along with the possibility of rain. Bring a raincoat, swimsuit for hot springs, outdoor hiking apparel, comfortable clothes for ceremonies, and warm layers. A more detailed pack list will be sent upon confirmation.

PERU COVID TRAVEL POLICIES

COVID

RESERVE YOUR SPOT

- Our COVID-19 policy is to comply with all national laws and we ask that participants respect our host country's COVID policies. Peru currently requires masks in public enclosed spaces and on public transportation.
- Before boarding the plane, you'll need to complete an electronic affidavit of health.
- Before boarding the plane, all travelers may show a vaccination card with the required doses completed up to 14 days before the flight
- Otherwise, those travelers not fully vaccinated must show a negative PCR test issued up to 48 hours before boarding
- If you arrive early, we ask that you minimize the risk of Covid-19 by avoiding large crowds and using masks in indoor spaces so that the retreat can remain COVID-free.

OUR VALUES

CULTURE ● COMMUNITY ● RECIPROCITY

The Plant Spirit School is a small, private, for-profit social enterprise whose mission is to:

Increase awareness of the therapeutic benefits of entheogenic medicines when used safely, responsibly, and with integrity;

Further harm reduction education and training, so that entheogenic healing spaces are safe, especially for BIPOC and LGBTQA+ participants;

Raise awareness of sustainability and social justice concerns arising from the globalization of ancestral plant medicines;

Expand diversity, equity, and inclusion in the psychedelic sector, so that participation is spiritually fulfilling and healing may be accessible to all.

With a commitment to continually re-invest company revenues towards furthering these objectives, while providing meaningful, fulfilling employment for the dedicated, hard-working members of our team and wider community.

SACRED RECIPROCITY

The Plant Spirit School faculty are committed to creating a diverse, inclusive, cross-cultural psychedelic community founded upon respect, friendship, and sacred reciprocity.

We facilitate indigenous interviews in our online events, as well as for other psychedelic conferences. We support the production of indigenous media, through our collaborations with the Huni Kuin of Brazil and the Siekopai of Ecuador. We also make direct financial contributions to indigenous communities, as well as to nonprofit organizations doing groundbreaking work in advocacy, legal reform, indigenous sovereignty, and sustainability.

SACRED COMMERCE

Sacred Commerce is the practice of business as a path of awakening and self-realization. We aim to create prosperity, balance, health, opportunity, and harmony in our communities through the empowered exchange of goods and services, within a paradigm of conscious capitalism.

We believe that everybody should be well-paid for the work that they do, especially indigenous wisdomkeepers. In Sacred Commerce, profit is considered to be an expression of love, a source of nourishment that provides prosperity to all stakeholders. Profitable enterprise can be a powerful force for positive change, supporting a sustainable, equitable, and inclusive society.

WHAT MAKES US DIFFERENT FROM OTHER PLANT MEDICINE RETREATS?

This retreat is specifically designed for plant medicine facilitators, ceremony space-holders,entheogenic church leaders and integration specialists. You will:

- Learn and practice a variety of ancestral and contemporary tools for entheogenic healing
- Practice holding peer-led integration circles, so that you can build the confidence to host your own circles at home
- Visit sacred Incan sites and power portals to invoke the divine guidance of the ancients to support the unfolding of your destiny
- Spend the entire retreat in focused healing and activation of your soul purpose through medicine ceremony and shamanic practices
- Make lifelong friendships with other emerging leaders of the Renaissance and build a powerful support network

Finally, many Western operated retreats are run by Western facilitators and team members, with one or two poorly-compensated, token indigenous healers. More than half the SPVQ team are indigenous and Peruvian co-facilitators who are being compensated at par with the Western facilitation team.

WHY JOIN A PLANT MEDICINE PRACTICUM RETREAT IN PERU?

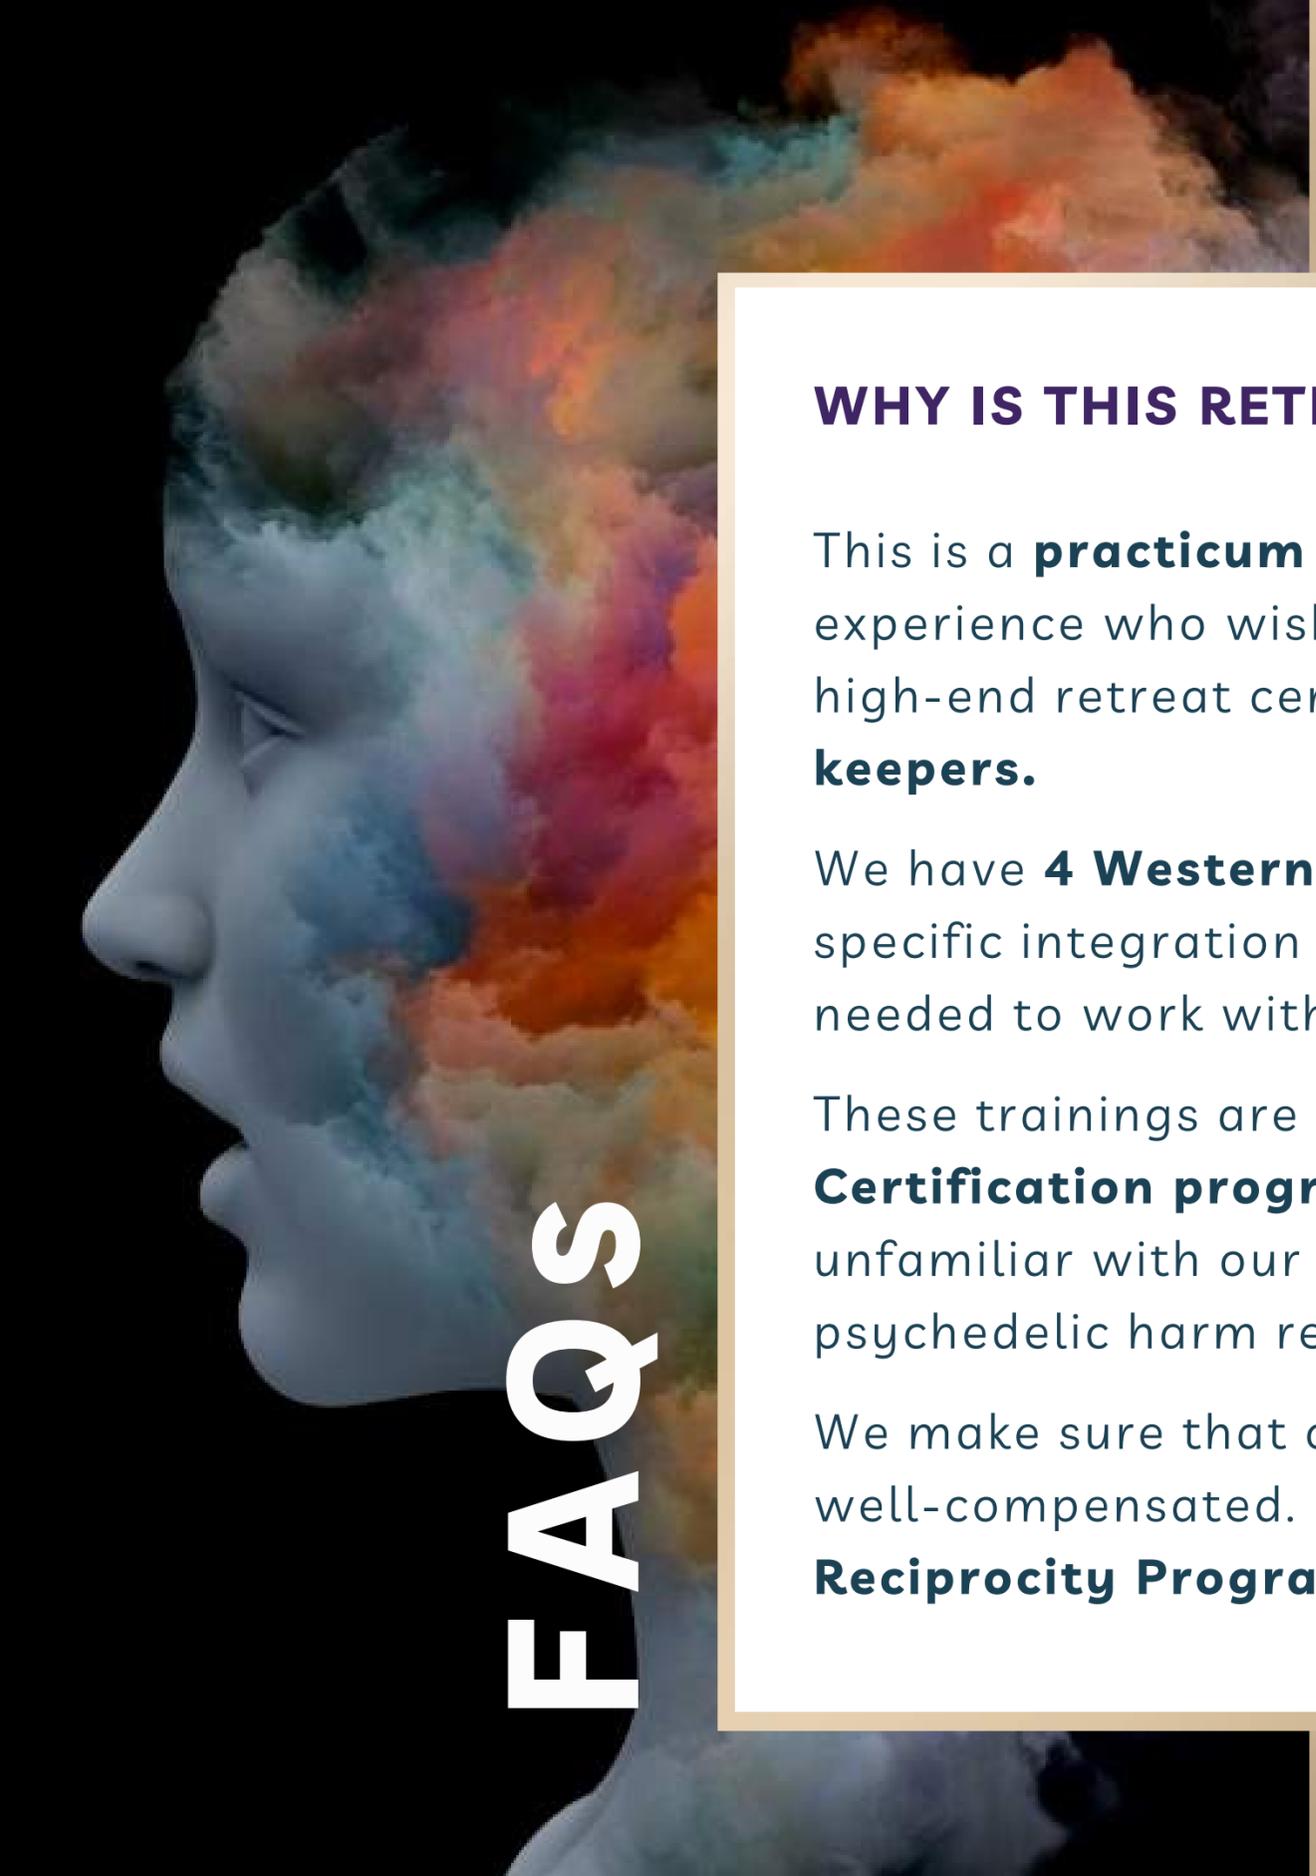

Regular plant medicine retreats are usually focused on personal healing and spiritual growth. However, if you are an existing or aspiring psychedelic therapist or integration coach, cultivating hands-on skills and experience so that you can safely work with entheogenic clients is a must.

Unfortunately, with psychedelics and entheogenic plant medicines being illegal in most locales, it's very difficult to gain this experience above ground. Indeed, many people hone their skills in underground plant medicines circles and entheogenic churches, but often these environments lack any formal training.

With the expansion of the Psychedelic Renaissance, more people are seeking psychedelic experiences, so the need for qualified and experienced integration specialists is real and rising.

This retreat offers a unique opportunity to cultivate integration skills bundled into an unforgettable, once-in-a-lifetime, cultural experience.

FAQS

WHY IS THIS RETREAT SO EXPENSIVE?

This is a practicum retreat for leaders and professionals who have entheogenic experience who wish to offer integration services. This is a high-touch retreat at a high-end retreat center, supported by 9 facilitators - which include 5 wisdom keepers.

We have 4 Western trainers flying in from different parts of the world who will teach specific integration modalities so that participants can gain and embody the skills needed to work with entheogenic clients.

These trainings are what we teach in the Plant Spirit School Integration Coach Certification program, and cannot easily be replicated by local Peruvians who are unfamiliar with our philosophy and frameworks related to trauma-informed care and psychedelic harm reduction.

We make sure that our indigenous wisdom keepers and local service partners are well-compensated. Finally, we allocate 10% of profits towards our Sacred Reciprocity Program, which includes charitable contributions to local NGOs.

As a small, privately-owned social enterprise, EntheoNation is committed to the principles of Sacred Commerce, ensuring that the abundance we generate is not hoarded, but shared equitably with our community so that the company is sustainable, everyone is paid a meaningful wage, AND we can give back.

If you are seeking a more economical retreat, we would gladly refer you to other retreat operators. For a one-week plant medicine retreat priced around $1500 that isn't illegal, expect rustic South American accommodations.

Any one-week retreat that is less than $1500 may also lack appropriate safety measures, in addition to the comforts of plumbing (imagine seeking an open latrine that is a hole in the jungle crawling with insects at night during ceremony).

Beds might be infested by bed bugs or scabies, which are common in the tropics (been there, done that). Or you may have to provision your own hammock (by far the safer option).

You can find a wide range of retreats on Retreat Guru, even in locales where the plant medicines are not legal.

FAQS

DO I NEED TO HAVE EXPERIENCED PSYCHEDELICS TO JOIN THIS RETREAT?

This retreat is a practicum retreat for those who have or wish to grow professional careers in the Psychedelic Renaissance. It is designed to support psychedelic therapists, facilitators and integration providers in cultivating the skills to work with entheogenic clients.

We prioritize applicants who have attended entheogenic ceremonies on a regular basis for at least one year. This is because we feel that it is essential that psychedelic facilitators and integration providers are familiar with psychedelic states of consciousness before working with others in this capacity.

While it is possible to attain altered states of consciousness achieved through other modalities we find that the ayahuasca experience is a distinct entheogenic experience and we do not have the capacity to support newcomers to psychedelics in a retreat designed for experienced professionals.

WHAT IS YOUR BUSINESS MODEL?

We are a small, private, for-profit social enterprise. We are not a volunteer-run nonprofit organization that relies on individual donors and grants in order to operate. All of our faculty are compensated a fair market value for their wisdom and expertise. Furthermore, our team of dedicated staff who have worked around the clock for months to bring this program to life is also paid a fair market wage for their labor.

Like most companies, we keep our valued team employed throughout the calendar year, even though the business only brings in meaningful revenue during major event launches and program enrollment periods, which take place twice a year. Therefore, we need to charge rates that can keep the business running and provide our team with the stable employment they deserve.

We are also not a venture-funded initiative supported by high-tech or cannabis capital. All revenues generated from the sale of courses, programs and retreats go back into the company to create new, educational offers. EntheoNation is a self-funded business that follows the principles of Sacred Commerce, whereby the Founder is the last person paid.

ARE THE INDIGENOUS BEING EXPLOITED TO PRODUCE THIS RETREAT?

Nobody is being pressured or forced to service this retreat against their will, or as an indentured servant. All wisdom keepers and co-facilitators are being paid the compensation that they have requested, an amount that is both fair, and above local market rates. Our wisdom keepers willingly participate in this retreat with love, joy, and gratitude to share their culture with people from so far away.

ARE THE PLANT MEDICINES BEING EXPLOITED TO PRODUCE THIS RETREAT?

The rainforest is not being destroyed in order to produce the medicine that is being served in this retreat. The Maestros make the medicine by hand, with love, according to their tradition, using both plants from their own garden, along with wildcrafted plants from the forest.

The Maestros mostly serve their local Shipibo community, and not ayahuasca tourists en masse, as high volume retreat centers do. Nor do they do they ship ayahuasca in bulk to customers in other countries.

Huachuma cactus grows abundantly in the Andes and is not being depleted.

WHERE DO THE PROFITS FROM THIS RETREAT GO?

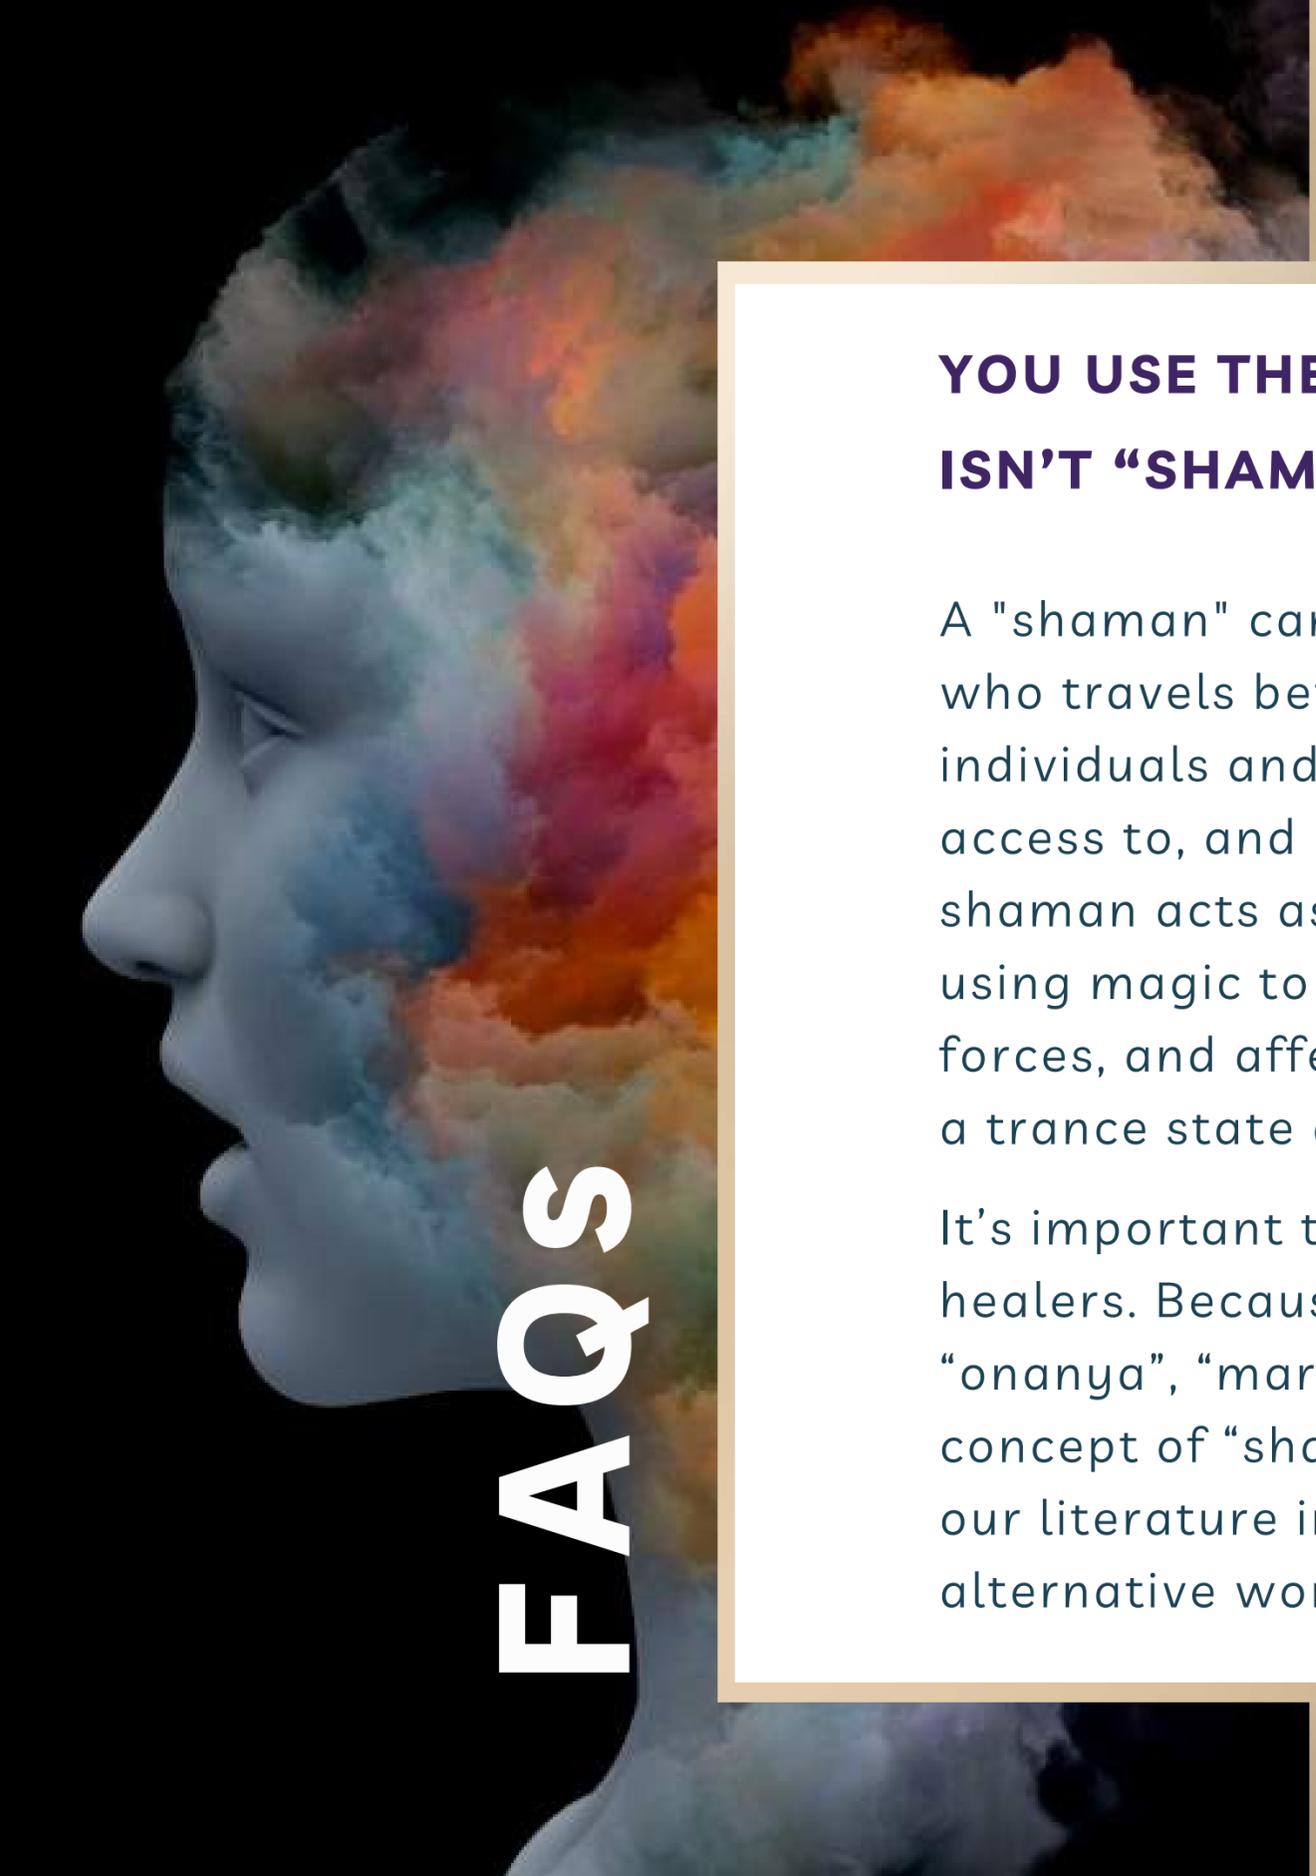

As a business, our #1 priority is to be able to sustainably offer programs that bring value to our customers year after year.

All profits go towards covering the expenses of running the next retreat, which include securing the retreat venue and food, payroll and travel expenses for all co-facilitators and wisdom keepers; payment to our sacred sites tour operator, and the entire back-office team that is responsible for web development, graphic design, administration and customer service. It is easily 100+ hours of work to produce and deliver a high-touch retreat in another country.

10% of profits also goes towards local charitable contributions, as part of our Sacred Reciprocity Program.

The Founder, Lorna Liana, choose to derive her salary, firstly, from business coaching and creative agency clients, and lastly, after her team and partners are paid, from offers related to sacred plant medicines.

YOU USE THE WORD “SHAMAN” AND “SHAMANIC” FREQUENTLY. ISN'T “SHAMAN” AND “SHAMANISM” TECHNICALLY FROM SIBERIA?

A "shaman" can be defined as an earth-centered community guide and healer who travels between worlds to gather and transmit information that helps individuals and the community. A “shaman” is a person regarded as having access to, and influence in the world of benevolent and malevolent spirits. A shaman acts as an intermediary between the natural and supernatural worlds, using magic to cure illness, foretell the future, control spiritual and elemental forces, and affect outcomes in the physical world. Typically, such people enter a trance state during rituals of divination and healing.

It's important to note that not all medicine ceremony leaders are doctors and healers. Because few people in English-speaking society know what “pajé”, “onanya”, “mara'akame”, or “curandero” means, and most understand the concept of “shaman”, we've chosen intentionally to use the word “shaman” in our literature in order to communicate this concept, for lack of a better alternative word.

WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN PSYCHEDELICS-ASSISTED PSYCHOTHERAPY AND PSYCHEDELIC INTEGRATION?

Psychedelics-assisted psychotherapy is a therapeutic modality which takes place in a clinical setting under the supervision of academically trained specialists. It centers around the ingestion of a psychedelic substance by participants to treat a myriad of conditions and typically includes both preparatory and integrative sessions.

Psychedelic integration is the process of taking ideas, imagery, memories, and epiphanies that may have come up during the journey and implementing them so that they may be applied to everyday life. This may be done by both therapists and coaches.

FAQS

WHY IS IT SO UNUSUAL FOR A RETREAT TO OFFER POST CEREMONY INTEGRATION SUPPORT?

Integration support is a responsibility that requires certain skills and training to do well, that anyone with the interest and commitment can learn. Some ceremony facilitators do offer integration packages but many do not. High-end retreat centers like Soltara in Costa Rica offer ongoing integration support.

The ones that do typically have a psychotherapy or coaching background. Others, such as indigenous ceremony leaders, shamanic healers, and medicine musicians may not be well-resourced or trained to offer ongoing support. Organizing and leading ceremonies and retreats is already a lot of work; many have day jobs, and thus do not have the extra capacity. Many facilitators do not feel it is their responsibility to provide integration support.

Ceremony guardians and helpers, volunteer members of the community who assist the ceremony, often do not have the skills or capacity to provide ongoing integration support, either. What happens all too frequently is that participants are left to process the insights, emotions, and traumas activated by the ceremony experience entirely on their own.

RESERVE YOUR SPOT

WHOSE RESPONSIBILITY IS IT TO PROVIDE INTEGRATION SUPPORT?

Due to the nature of the psychedelic experience, lack of adequate integration can potentiate past traumas leaving individuals grappling with new personal challenges triggered by the ceremony itself. Having a referral network of trained integration providers is imperative for the safety and well-being of participants.

Underground ceremony facilitators are often ill-equipped to provide ongoing support since their primary focus is hosting and leading ceremonies. Ceremony assistants are typically members of the community who volunteer their time to support a ceremony, and not to offer ongoing integration support to participants.

WHY IS THERE SO MUCH FOCUS ON PSYCHEDELIC INTEGRATION?

In traditional communities, there is no need for additional integration support as the culture itself is integrative. The ceremony participants receive the integration support from the communities they live in. In comparison, Western society is not set up to help people integrate profound transformational experiences. The Western materialist paradigm rejects the experience of non-ordinary states of consciousness, highlighting the demand for more trained specialists in the Western world.

FAQS

WHY AREN'T THERE ENOUGH PSYCHEDELIC INTEGRATION PROVIDERS?

Decriminalization and legalization of psychedelics as breakthrough treatments for mental health are expanding around the world. As a result, the current demand for psychedelic therapy is growing rapidly, with patients of legal ketamine clinics experiencing long wait times. Because psychedelic medicine remains illegal in most locales, many are turning to underground facilitators, plant medicine ceremonies, and retreats.

With the increase in interest for psychedelics, there is a proportional increase in demand for integration support. At the moment, there is a bottleneck with notable organizations that are training psychedelic therapists - they are not graduating people fast enough. This is why there aren't enough qualified people to meet the increasing demand for psychedelic medicine.

The promise of psychedelics to address the global mental health crisis is only as strong as the availability of qualified integration specialists who can support clients through the most transformational experience of their lives.
